

New enzymatic biosensors for environmental and food quality control

Camelia BALA*, Lucian ROTARIU and Vasile MAGEARU

Laboratory of Quality Control & Process Monitoring, Department of Analytical Chemistry, Faculty of Chemistry, University of Bucharest, 90 Sos. Panduri, 762351 Bucharest-5, Romania

Abstract The paper presents an amperometric biosensors for pesticides detection with potential applications in quality control of food and environment. Biosensors based on the enzymatic inhibition of AChE will be presented.

Keywords: biosensors, quality control, acetylcholinesterase.
